DEC Names New Public Information Officer

(JUNEAU, AK) – The Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) has named Candice Bressler as its new public information officer. Bressler takes over from Ty Keltner who served DEC for four years prior to joining the Office of the Governor earlier this year.

Bressler most recently served in a similar role as the department communications coordinator for the Alaska Department of Fish and Game (ADF&G). She began her state service in 2009 as the ADF&G workforce development program coordinator, focusing on recruitment and retention strategies statewide. Bressler is currently in her second year as co-chair of the Governor's Denali Peak Performance Awards Program, a statewide effort recognizing outstanding state employees for their dedication to excellence in their jobs.

Bressler is based out of DEC Headquarters in Juneau.
